THREE STRAIGHT DEFEATS.

The Detroits Bat Victory Out of Moffett, Although They Are Out-Fielded.

Chicago Makes Eleven Runs in One Inning in a Game with Pittsburg-Cincinnati Wins from Lenisville-Base Ball Notes.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal DETROIT, June 22.-The champions, in view of the broken-up condition of their opponents, became a trifle gay this afternoon, and nearly lost the game. Watkins thought it was such a "pudding," he would try Gruber and Sateliffe against them. The mercury was skipping around in the nineties, but the perspiration that streamed down Watkins's countenance was cold, and at the close of the game he looked as thankful as though he had been rescued from a vieleat death. The Detroits started out in gallant style. In the second inning singles by Twitchell, Hanion and Sutcliffe, aided by errors of Bassett and Esterbrook and Richardson's sacrifice gave three runs. In the second Moffet was pounded savagely. Thompson led with a triple but was squelched at the plate in trying to make it a homer. Then Ganzel made a single, Twitchell a double, and Hanlon and Sutcliffe three-basers in succession, the result being three runs. In the fourth Brouthers's base on balls and Rowe's double gave another run, and the final tally was scored in the ninth on Gruber's double and Brouthers's single. It looked like a bad beating for the visitors until the fourth, when singles by Denny and Esterbrook and the rankest kind of errors by Sutcliffe and Richardson yielded four runs. Another was captured in the fifth, on Hines's double and Denny's single. They seemed to lose their grip after that, but in the ninth caught on again, Bassett was first at bat, and fouled out to Sutcliffe. McGeachy made a rattling single to left. Myers's corking liner to right was caught by Thompson. Esterbrook banged a single to right. Buckley knocked one to left, McGeachy scoring on the hit. Haulon fumbled the hit, and Esterbrook got third. He kept right on to the got to second and a wild pitch sent him to third. Only one run was need to tie. Moffett made a lunge at the bail but got it only as far as Richardson, and as the third man went out an ablebodied eigh of relief ascended. Manager Spence expects Boyle to arrive to morrow, in which event his battery will be Boyle and Myers. Detroit will present Conway and Ganzell.

Baltimore, June 2.2-The home batsmen could do nothing with Blakely's curves to-day until late in the game, and then the Cleveland team had a lead that could not be overcome. Smith pitched a strong game after the first inning, and was well supported. The features were Hogan's batting and the fielding of McKean, Stricker and Burns. Score:

Base-Ball Notes.

The Bostons are about to release Tom Brown. The Indianapolis team will arrive home tomorrow morning and will play with Pittsburg

The Bostons have a new third baseman on trial. His name is Klusman, and he is from the New England League.

At Danville, Ill., yesterday, the Danville and Peoria clubs had their trial for playing ball in Danville on Sunday. Each member was fined Glasscock says that Shreve and Healy are now both in good condition. The former he thinks has more speed than he has had at any previous time this season. Glasscock, Seery and Healy reached home yes-terday morning from Detroit. The first named has a strained tenden in the leg. He will prob-ably be able to play by Monday, as will Seery whose finger is about well. It looks like the Indianapolis players would come home loaded with neither bonor nor disgrace. Seven victories was the number settled upon for them to win, and they have gotten that number and no more. If they should accidentally win to-day it will be considered that they have done well.

The Detroit Tribune pays this tribute to the Hoosiers: The Hoosiers are to-day one of the strongest teams in the League, having improved immeasurably over last season. With perhaps the most brilliant infield in the League, good catchers, and a lively outfield, they are capable of making even the champions look alive. Indianapolis is at present unfortunate in its pitching department. Shreve and Moffet are under the weather, and Boyle has been in Indianapolis for a fortnight. Catcher Buckley is the youngster of the team, and one of the best of backstops.

STANLEY AND TIPPOO TIB. Relations Subsisting Between the Explorer and the Former Stave-Trader.

Major Barttelot, commanding the little garrison at the month of the Aruwimi, has written a letter to a friend in London, expressing grave apprehension of disaster, but the facts on which he bases his judgment have not been revealed. Mr. Ward, one of his assistants, will soon arrive in England with dispatches from the post containing the latest news from the upper Congo. Mr. Stanley landed at that point and entered upon his perilous enterprise. Since July no direct information has been received from him. Deserters from his column reported him to be alive early in October. On Nov. 2 Emin sent dispatches from Lake Albert, stating that no tidings of the expedition had been received. Mr. Stanley had confidently expected to reach Wadelai during October, and the protracted delay, as well as the lack of decisive information, alike tend to excite grave alarm. New York Tribune.

The only conjectures which have been formed respecting the cause of delay or possible disaster have indicated treachery on the part of Mr. Stanley's ally, Tippoo Tib. This is the mercenary chief and slave-trader who escorted the explorer's caravan across country to upper Congo in 1877, when he made his famous descent of the river. He is the most powerful chief known in the region between Lake Tanganyika and Stanley Falls. He was probably responsible for the assault upon the European station at the latter point which preceded Mr. Stanley's return to the Congo valley. Tippoo Tib resembled in his authority over native races and in his character and occupation Zobehr, whom General Gordon was anxious to have as an ally at Khartoum. Mr. Stanley knew that he could do nothing without Zobehr, and thought that he could purchase the slave-trader's support by giving large bribes to him and by investing him with supreme authority at Stanley Falls. The two men met in Zanzibar early last year and made a bargain. Tippoo Tib accepted the office of Governor at the Falls, agreeing to defend the station against Arabs and blacks, and being promised s handsome salary from the Congo Free State. He also signed a contract for supplying 600 carriers who were to accompany Mr. Stanley to Wadelai and to transport Emin's Stanley to Wadelai and to transport Emin's large stock of ivory to the Congo.

When Mr. Stanley's expedition ascended the Congo Tippo Tib went to the Falls and took charge of the station, with the title of Governor. He was expected to send provisions and men to the upper Aruwimi while the column was on the march. The messages received by Mayor Barttelot from the expedition in July stated that supplies and reinforcements were urgently needed. Tippo Tip commanded two of the four approaches to Wadelai, and apparently was able to send supplies to the Aruwimi valley, but neglected to hold to his agreement. If disaster has overtaken Mr. Stanley his Zobehr will probably be held responsible for it, since through inaction or treachery on his part the progress of the expedition has been retarded and its resources crippled and exhausted. Tippoo Tib sources crippled and exhausted. Tippoo Tib was willing, while in Zanzibar, to agree to ab-stain from slave-traffic at Stanley Falls and to take arms against slave-raiders. It is probable that when he arrived at the station and asserted his authority as Governor, the instincts of the old slave-hunter revived. Possibly he ascertained that he could make more money in the slave trade than he could by supplying Mr. Stanley with provisions and transporting Emin's seventy-five tons of ivory across country to the Congo. At any event this is as plausible an explanation as can be offered for his treachery by which the success of the relief expedition has been imperiled.

The Assignment of West Point Graduates. Washington pecial.

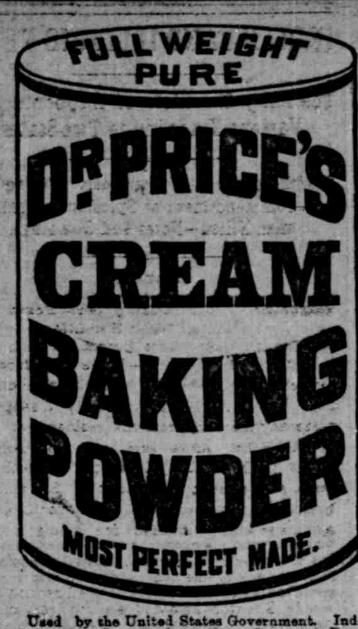

Washington 'pscial.

The subject of assigning the recent graduates from West Point to duty in the army is now occupying the attention of the Secretary of War. The academic board recommends that the first five members of the class be assigned to the engineer corps, the next twelve to the artillery, and the remaining twenty-seven divided between cavalry and infantry. The difficulty with this plan is that vacancies do not exist in the proper proportion. The recent retirement of two officers of the line leaves the task easier, as it makes two places for new second lieutenants; but probably eighteen of the young men will have to be assigned as "additionals." Representative Townshend, of Illinois, who returned from the Point last week, is enthusiastic over the condition of things there, and declares that the academy will have his vote for every dollar it needs to maintain its present standard of scholarship, discipline, and general efficiency. As chafrman of the military affairs committee of the House, Mr. Townshend is a valuable acquisition to the friends of the institution in Congress.
